

The SPCA organization

The charity that the local company should donate money to is the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. We could help animals and fight to get the animals out of bad situations. These are some reasons why we should donate to the SPCA.

We should donate money to the SPCA because we can help animals by getting the animals' wounds healed and by giving them clean food and water. We can also give the animals fantastic shelter. If we could help create animals like horses, horses are sometimes abused because they do not have good food and water. The SPCA could intervene to make sure that the horses have clean water and healthy grass and hay.

These are the reasons why we should donate
